GREAT MERCHANT MARINE LIKELY, SAYS DANIELS

An increasing navy means that America must soon have one of the greatest merchant marines in the world, in the opinion of Secretary of the Navy Daniels, expressed in a letter to Superintendent King of the Charlestown (Massachusetts) Sailors' Haven, which was made public last week. The letter contained Daniels' approval of a plan to make Sunday, May 7, sailors' day in the churches.
 "The sailor has always been one of the most useful men in any country," Daniels wrote. "While it is true that the United States has allowed their merchant marine to decline, we have, nevertheless, come to a day in our national history when the whole American people have awakened to the conclusion that we must rebuild that marine. Already the great shipyards of the country are crowded with new ships, and are hastening the time of their launching."
 "A great navy and a great merchant marine must always go hand in hand. The very fact that we have built a great navy and are increasing it today as never before, is an earnest evidence of the fact that we must soon also have one of the greatest merchant marines in the world. The sailor, therefore, is the coming man. If he is not already the man of the hour, and we live in a day when the church cannot afford to neglect the spiritual welfare of this man."
 "I heartily endorse the establishment of Sailors' day, when prayer shall be offered for and gifts made in the interest of those courageous 'men who go down to the sea in ships.'"
